I am building a custom grub bootup page. On the fly installation needs some help from you guys. It is not very time consuming. You guys just need to download the two files (zen & the mbr) you can read about it in the link below. Download the files, unzip and execute the command below to create the directory,./mkdir /mbr-tftp-1. mkdir -p /mbr-tftp-1 Download the files. Installation of the ISO-to-HDD firmware load The second step in the installation is loading the ISO-to-HDD firmware from the downloaded Firmware.zip into the boot sector. This can be done in two ways: using the rufus software that is included with the ISO or using a firmware update tool included in the ISO (provided by Sysinstall). Use the rufus software Rufus is a fairly easy to use windows application that can be used to write flash drives and install firmware. Download and run the file Rufus.exe. If the application failed to start, you may need to install the Microsoft.NET Framework 3.5 Service Pack 1 (SP1) The "Flash USB" button in the rufus GUI can be used to burn the contents of a folder into the USB drive. When the USB drive is inserted, use the USB flash drive icon to install the firmware. When the installation is complete, remove the USB flash drive, and reboot the firmware. 82157476af
